

Through your social media postings, you have vilified a former Chair of the PC, who through their foresight and efforts, the SFF site was acquired, thus helping to prevent massive over development in the heart of our village.

You seek to discredit and publicly humiliate named individuals in order to promote yourself, and garner support for your own personal aims and ambitions for SFF, the stables in particular, which it is evident you would like to return to a Blue X centre.

You've vilified the CIC, who effectively run the site on behalf of the PC, and who, with the help of the Conservation Society, and a small army of very willing volunteers have already successfully given us the permissive footpath, planted an orchard and wild flower beds, and set up the pop-up pub events, in addition to the considerable repair and maintenance work required.

You also infer that there is something unsavoury and sinister about the Northiam Bonfire Society, and by association, it's members. Referring to it being 'an extremely powerful and influential group within the village', although you fail to mention the generous donations it makes to community causes and organisations.

it is evident, like so many of your peers today in the world of journalism, that you seek to create the news rather than report it. This is highlighted in your convenient, liberal use of the word 'allegedly', and scant use of the actual facts.

My question to you is this..... What have you contributed to this community apart from creating a toxic atmosphere in which the PC is forced to conduct its business, and causing chaos – confusion – mistrust and division throughout the village?
